ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A float, particularly for level control in bottles of liquefied gas and the like, comprising a float body associated with an element for connection to a valve unit, the float body being constituted by an internally hollow element made of plastics whose shape is defined by a plurality of mutually intersecting spherical bodies.